Your rights’ below).

You can withdraw your consent at any time by changing your settings or by contacting us through the Inquiries Desk in Section ‘9 Inquiries related to personal data’ below.

Where we process your personal data for a purpose other than that for which we collected it initially and are relying on a legal basis other than consent or complying with legal obligations for this new purpose, we will ascertain whether processing for this new purpose is compatible with the purpose for which the personal data were initially collected. As a result, your personal data may be shared with other entities within the Nikon Group. However, each Nikon Group company and those other systems and databases will only collect, receive, use, share or otherwise process such personal data provided for shared use in accordance with applicable laws, this Privacy Notice and our Nikon Group Privacy Protection Policy (<https://www.nikon.com/privacy/group/>). Moreover, internally we maintain a strict access policy with regard to the processing of personal data. Only a limited group of authorized Nikon staff on a need to know basis will have access to your personal data.

As a rule, we will not share your personal data with anyone other than Nikon Group staff, the contest judges and third parties overseeing the contest, besides your entered work, the work's title and the creator name. Your work may be used in any media for Nikon's internal use and business purposes and may be accessed on a global level. Please also note that when we delete personal data collected from you upon your request to erase the data, we retain the request email and the personal data of your name and your email address as proof of the erasure until we delete it together with other entrants' personal data at the end of the year in which the Nikon Film and Photo Contest takes place.

6. International transfer of personal data

Given the global nature of our company, your personal data may be transferred to Nikon entities and entrusted third parties in countries outside the European Economic Area whose laws may not afford the same level of protection of your personal data. Where necessary, Nikon will ensure that appropriate and adequate safeguards are in place to comply with the requirements for the international transfer of personal data under applicable privacy laws. For transfers of personal data outside the European Economic Area, Nikon will use European Commission approved mechanisms, such as the Privacy Shield certification, and standard contractual clauses as safeguards, such as the "(EU-)controller to (Non EU/EEA-)controller" Decision 2004/915//EC (see Article 46 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)). These rights will be limited in some situations, such as when Nikon processes your personal data in response to a legal obligation.

We will, for example, deny your request for access when necessary to protect the rights and freedoms of other individuals or refuse to delete your personal data in case the continued retention of such data is necessary for compliance with legal obligations. The right to data transfer, for example, does not apply in case the personal data was not provided by you, if we did not obtain the personal data on the basis of your consent, or if processing of your personal data is necessary for execution of a contract. You have the right to obtain the restriction of the processing of your personal data, which means that we suspend the processing of your data for a certain period of time. Circumstances which may give rise to this right include situations where the accuracy of your personal data was contested but some time is needed for us to verify their (in)accuracy. This restriction of processing does not prevent us from continuing to store your personal data. We will inform you before the restriction is lifted.

7.5 Right to receive your file (data portability)

You have the right to request Nikon to provide you with the personal data stored by Nikon in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and to have such data transmitted directly to another controller, where technically feasible.
